We understand Word Lam, marine hawker, was brought that no idea has been entertained of before Captain Hastings at the Megistracy asking the Chinese to sign the Petition, and no division of opinion amongst the promoters of the Petition could therefore have arisen. Any British subject of Chinese origin would; as a matter of course, have a right to append his name, even although the wording of the Petition lays special stress upon the common right of Englishmen to manage their own local affairs. But any idea of asking for signatures amongst Chinese residents in the Co- Anorner illustration of the fact that a lony has, we are assured, never been large number of technical difficulties arise suggested. the small encouragement which the Chamber has recently secoly ed may account in some pecoure ac the mildress of its time and the lack of force and importubity in its demands for tradal facilities. Be this as It may it is being borne in upon the minds of those who watch events that the great hopes and big expectations formed when the present British Minister was appointed to the Peking Court, are vanishing into thin hir. It is with pleasure and with a slight revivel of hope, therefore, that we hear of certain definite and distinct proposals which are to be made at to-morrow's meeting of the Chamber. The question of Transic Passes has cocupied the attention of diplomatic and commercial men for many years. It was supposed to have been settled in favour of European Merchants years ago; but the Uhinese officials continue to ignore the terms of the arrangement with that placid inertness which is so characteristic of the immobile Celestial. At the annual meeting of the Chamber, to be held to-morrow, this important matter will be fully discussed, and a resolution, we understand, will be submit ted for the consideration of members. full meeting may therefore be con fidently looked for and some good ought to result from the discussion of the subject and the action proposed to
